

SEEING PAST THE CRISIS

A NEW NORMAL

“On December 1st 2019 the symptoms of COVID-19 were recorded as a cluster of cases rose in Wuhan China under the lung infection called pneumonia, the bacterial infection which has a deadly effect on the lungs. At this time, it was caused by a novel beta coronavirus called, at that time, 2019-nCoV”

“...By the end of December hospitals in the Hubei province of China had four cases of what was called a “pneumonia of unknown ecology” with a string of cases in the Wuhan province. As the new year started, January saw cases arriving in Thailand and some of the individuals who caught the virus started to die...”

“...During the last week of February outbreaks were reported in Iran, Italy and South Korea. The spread of the virus was spreading to the Middle East and Europe with cases confirmed in a total of fifty-six countries and global cases numbering 84,090...”

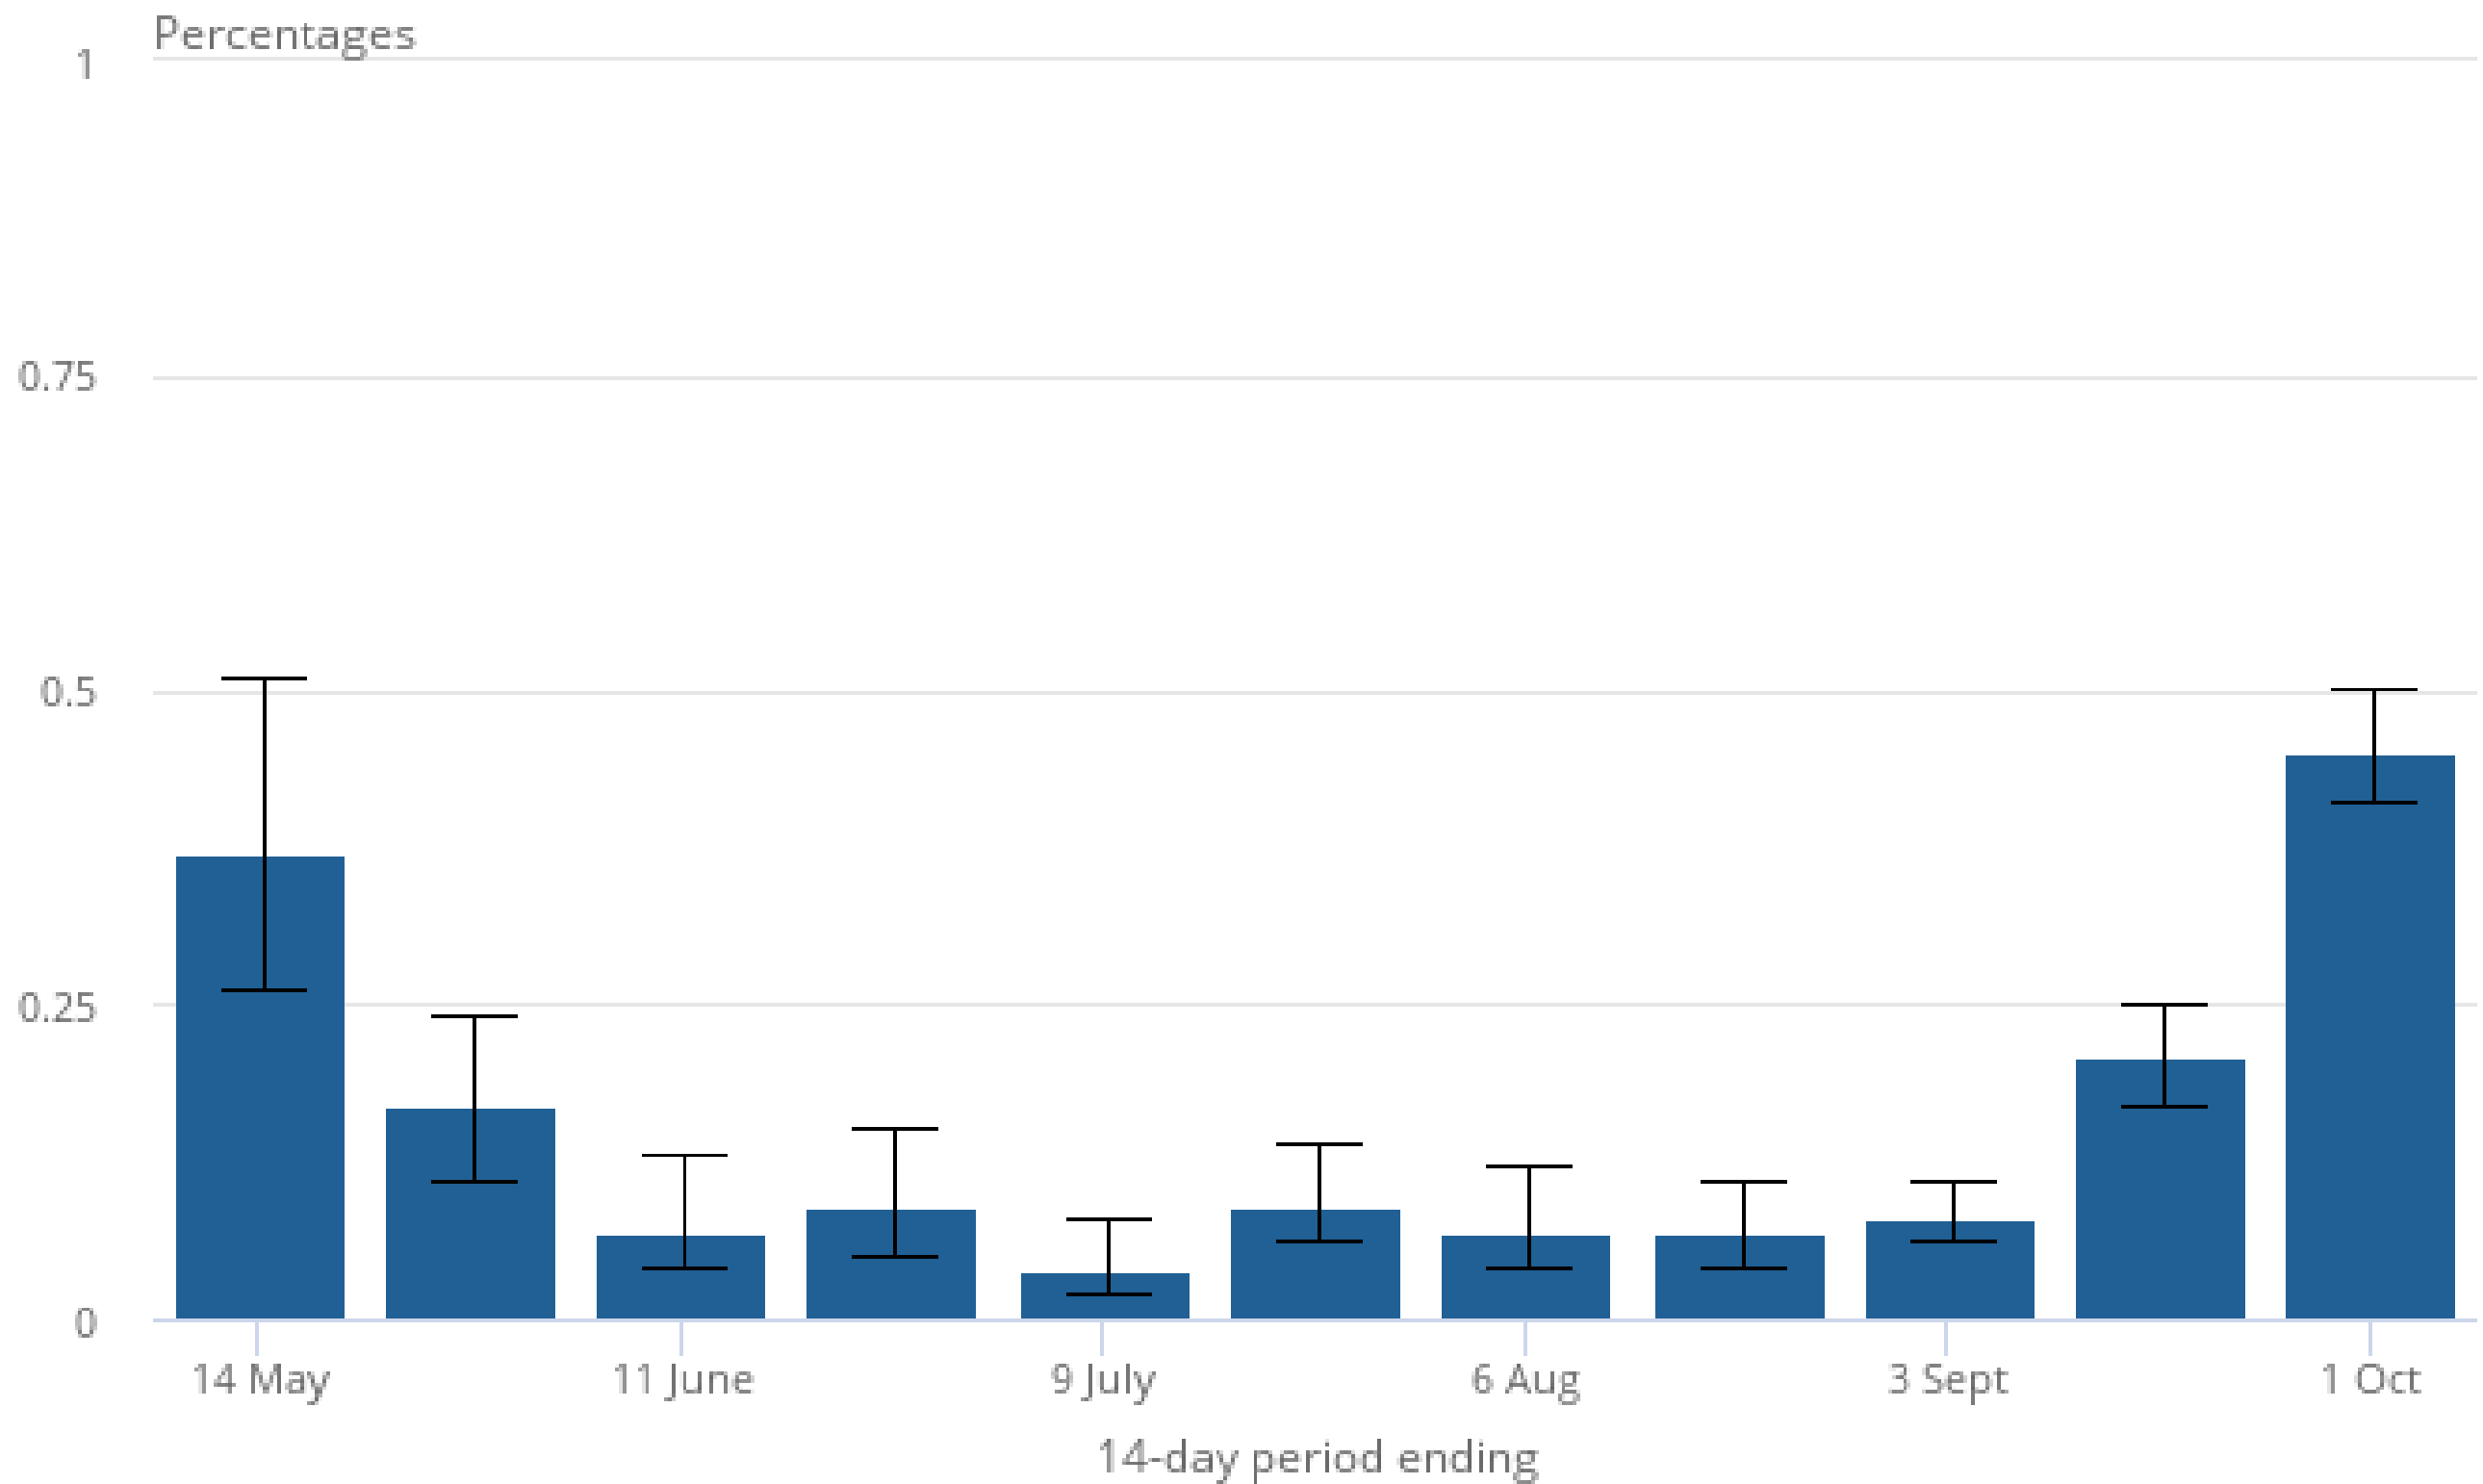

“...As we approached April 12th, COVID-19 had arrived to the shore of USA and was causing havoc as the USA had by this time had the most deaths reported in the World. The UK Prime minister, Boris Johnson, was discharged from hospital and the lockdown in the UK was well under way since starting on March 16th.”

Figure 2: The weighted fortnightly estimate to 1 October (which underpins our modelled official estimates) shows the number of infections has increased rapidly in recent weeks

Estimated percentage of the population in England testing positive for the coronavirus (COVID-19) by non-overlapping 14-day periods between 1 May and 1 October 2020

WHAT IS THE NEW NORMAL

A new normal is a state to which an economy, society, etc. settles following a crisis, when this differs from the situation that prevailed prior to the start of the crisis. The term has been used in relation to the financial crisis of 2007-2008, the aftermath of the 2008–2012 global recession, and the COVID-19 pandemic.
